2002 Season Outlook

After adjusting to life in the Atlantic Coast Conference in year one of the Terry Rupp era at Maryland, the Terrapin baseball team is poised to show improvement in 2002 both in the standings and on the field. With the return of a solid core of talented upperclassmen and an intriguing crop of newcomers, the 2002 Terrapins could very well be one of the most improved teams in the ACC.

The 2002 Terrapins will get back to basics and focus on two keys that every successful team has: pitching and defense. "We have made the most improvement from last season with our pitching staff," commented Terrapin skipper Terry Rupp. "We have a core group of guys who pitched plenty of innings last season and that experience will pay off this season."

Defensively, the Terps look strong up the middle with the addition of Baltimore Orioles draft pick Justin Maxwell in center, to go along with a solid middle infield combination of freshman Joe Sargent and draft prospect John McCurdy, and a three-year starter in Kevin McDonald behind the dish. "Defensively, I can't think of any holes that we have," added Rupp. "It will be very important for us to stay healthy, but we are strong up the middle and I expect this team to perform at a high level in the field."

Perhaps the biggest difference within the Terrapin pitching staff is the number of capable arms the Terps will be able to use on the mound. After struggling to find more than six or seven healthy arms in 2001, Rupp will have plenty of options to turn to in 2002. "We are confident that we have 15 or 16 guys we can go to and help us win some games," said Rupp.

That key group of pitchers features three juniors who all will vie for the No. 1 spot in the Terps' rotation. Redshirt junior Todd Ainsworth returns with all of the tools to become one of the top pitchers in the ACC. After missing most of the 2000 season due to Tommy John surgery on his right elbow, the right-handed Ainsworth returned last season and was the team's starter in the first game of the ACC Tournament. "Todd is finally healthy and is throwing the ball real well. His fastball has come back and his breaking pitch was outstanding during the fall season."

Another pitcher in the mix is junior right-hander Jared Stuart. The 6-6 New York native led the team in innings pitched last season and should be one of better pitchers in the ACC if he can be consistent. "Jared pitched a number of quality innings last season and he was kind of our hard-luck pitcher," commented Rupp. "He threw some really good games but just lost some tight ones. Still, he pitched very well in spots and if he can improve his consistency, he is going to be a big contributor to the success of this team."

The third junior that will be counted on is right-hander Steve Schmoll. After seeing limited action as a freshman, Schmoll was a weekend starter a year ago and showed flashes of brilliance on the hill. From his 10-strikeout performance vs. Georgetown to tossing the team's only complete game of the season in an upset victory over nationally ranked Wake Forest, Schmoll has the makings of becoming a solid ACC pitcher. "If Steve can pitch consistently and keep his focus, he will have a good season," said Rupp.

Others who could also attempt to crack the starting rotation include a freshman and another junior. Freshman righty Chris Clem threw very well during the fall season and is one newcomer Rupp will turn to while junior Brad Lyons is the hardest thrower on the team. "Chris pitched well during the fall and Brad was coming into his own last season before getting injured. He is healthy now and with his improved curveball and changeup to go along with a good fastball, it will make him tough to hit this season," said Rupp.

Two other newcomers, freshman Sean Kane and junior transfer Derek Hoffman, are two players that can pitch plenty of innings both as starters or out of the bullpen. Along with freshman Brooks Norris, who was one of the biggest surprises of the fall, they give the Terps a number of options.

After having only one left-hander on the team last year who was a part-time player, Rupp has four southpaws to turn to in 2002. "It will really help us since left-handers are so valuable, especially late in the game," added Rupp.

One southpaw who could have a major impact as a freshman is Josh Andrews. After experiencing some arm soreness in the fall, Andrews is fully recovered and could be a pleasant surprise on the hill. "Josh is a pitcher who just knows how to pitch and has great command of the strike zone," said Rupp. "He reminds me of Tom Glavine on how he can pick his spots and work both corners of the plate."

Senior

The team's bullpen looks to be in good shape with several capable arms returning. Juniors Mike Dollmeyer and Matt Basinger are reliable arms for middle relief and senior Ken Back is tough for any right-handed batter with his down-under delivery.

Junior transfer Kyle George gives the Terps a guy who can come in and close, which is what the Terps have lacked over the years. "We think Kyle can come in and be one of our closers," said Rupp.

"I am confident that our pitching staff will have a good year," said Rupp. "We ask them to do three things: keep the ball down, hit their spots and change speeds. If we do that, we will be very successful this year."

In the field, one player to keep an eye on is redshirt junior Ray Gemmill. After playing sporadically his first two years in College Park, Gemmill developed into one of the team's most consistent hitters down the stretch in 2001. "Ray started playing at first base last year due to injuries and never played there before, but his footwork has really improved and he played very well during the fall," said Rupp. "Ray is our leading candidate at first base and also at designated hitter."

Other options Rupp has at both first base and designated hitter include senior Kevin McDonald and freshman Jason Maxey. Both players swing the bat left-handed and will also see time behind the plate at catcher.

Another option behind the dish is sophomore Anthony Buffone. The most versatile player on the roster, Buffone played catcher, third base, first base and right field as a freshman. "Anthony is our Jim Leyritz since he carries every glove in his bag," commented Rupp. "He is a guy who we can play just about anywhere."

At second base, the Terps will turn to freshman Joe Sargent to win the starting job. After an impressive fall season, Rupp feels Sargent will be ready to contribute right away for the Terrapins. "Joe played well in the fall and really showed some pop in his bat for a young guy," said Rupp. "He is small and stocky, but has excellent quickness and can play anywhere in the middle infield."

Another candidate for the second base job is saphomore Jeremy Suarez. After playing sparingly as a freshman, Suarez handles the bat well and is a solid defensive player who will see time for the Terps.

Junior John McCurdy will be the Terps' shortstop and has the talent and potential to become one of the elite players in the Atlantic Coast Conference. "John is a different player this year," said Rupp. "He has really matured as a player; physically, he is much stronger and faster this season.

"John has all the tools to be a great shortstop in our league. It is matter of him putting everything together consistently, and he has shown he can do it," added Rupp.

At third base, the position is wide open with the Terps having several players who will see time at the hot corner. "Third is like first base for us in that we have plenty of candidates for the job. It could be junior Kyle George, Anthony Buffone, Joe Sargent or even senior Matt Swope. It will basically be determined by who we are facing on the mound and if that pitcher is a right-hander or a southpaw," Rupp said.

In the outfield, everything starts with Matt Swope. The local product from New Carrollton has all the makings of one of the top outfielders in the conference from his power and speed offensively and fine defensive skills in the field. "Matt has matured tremendously and I know he will put up big numbers for us this season," said Rupp.

After playing most of last season in centerfield, Swope will make the move to left in 2002. The front-runner for the center field duties is freshman Justin Maxwell. A 43rd-round selection of the Baltimore Orioles in last June's Major League Draft, Maxwell is the only Terp on the roster to have been drafted out of high school and has all the tools to become an excellent collegiate player.

"Justin is one of the most talented players we have," said Rupp. "He is a guy who has all the tools and we are just going to let him go out there and things will come around for him. He has a chance to be a very good player for us."

Over in right, freshman Will Frazier is poised to start. Another local player from nearby Riverdale Baptist, Frazier has an excellent arm and has shown good power in the fall for the Terps. "Will's biggest asset is his throwing arm," commented Rupp. In addition to Frazier, Swope and Maxwell also have good throwing arms and should be one area of vast improvement for the Terps in 2002.

Another possible candidate for one of the outfield positions is junior Daryl Whitmer. A two-sport athlete who also played wide receiver for the football Terrapins, Whitmer has excellent athletic ability and is one of the top base runners on the roster. "Daryl is one of those guys who just comes in and works hard and you just can't keep him out of the lineup," said Rupp.

In focusing on the upcoming season, Rupp knows pitching will be the key to improving in 2002. "We have so many versatile players that we can throw different combinations at people, but pitching is the key," said Rupp. "If our pitchers pitch the way they are capable of with the defense that will be behind them, we will be a team to watch."

Indeed, the 2002 Terps should be a fun team to watch. With a school-record 33 home games on tap, the Terrapins could be one of the most improved teams in the conference. With a balanced offensive attack and a much-improved defense, the key to 2002 is the Terrapin pitching staff. With the number of talented arms the Terps possess, this year could be a steppingstone season for the Terrapin baseball program.

Terry Rupp

Head Coach
Second season at Maryland
Seventh season overall
Tampa '88

35

Terry Rupp begins his second season as the leader of the Maryland baseball program. After adjusting to life in the ACC in 2001, Rupp and his coaching staff are poised to mold this season's young and talented team into a winning club.

In just six seasons as a coach, Rupp has won 232 games and owns an impressive .665 winning percentage.

Rupp has the Terrapins pointed in the right direction to be a contender in the always competitive Atlantic Coast Conference. Rupp and his staff landed a talented crop of newcomers that already join a solid nucleus of returning players.

The late '60s and '70s saw Maryland consistently contending for the ACC title, winning three during that time span and also making the school's only three trips to the NCAA Tournament. Hard work and being prepared to win will be essential components Rupp will key on to lead the Terrapins in 2002.

"My basic belief is that a team must prepare itself before it goes into competition," commented the second-year Terrapin skipper. "Preparation is the key. When we are on the diamond, our team is going to go out and come after people." The hard-nosed style of play should be noticeable from the way the team hustles on the base paths to going all out in the field. "We are going to play hard for nine innings and let other programs know that we are here to play," said Rupp.

Rupp, 35, led Tampa to a 215-80 (.729) record in five years as head coach, including four 40-win seasons. Rupp guided Tampa to the 1998 national championship with an impressive 46-14 record. The national title was the third in Spartan history. In 2000, his team was ranked No. 2 in the NCAA Division II poll heading into postseason play. His Tampa teams posted a 15-5 cumulative record against Division I opposition, including wins over Miami, Oral Roberts, Southwestern Louisiana and Army.

Under his tutelage, eight of his Tampa players were selected in the amateur baseball draft. Three players were taken in the first nine rounds of the 2000 draft, giving Tampa more early draftees than any other college baseball team in the state of Florida.

Rupp is a graduate of the University of Tampa where he earned a bachelor of science degree in marketing. At Tampa, he was a two-time All-South Regional baseball selection who played on teams that made a pair of national championship appearances. He was a teammate of St. Louis Cardinals' first baseman Tino Martinez. He also was a two-time all-conference selection in basketball and a two-time conference all-academic selection.

As a prep, he was a Parade and McDonald's All-American in basketball after helping lead Jesuit High of Tampa to the class 3A state championship. In 1989, he was voted into the Jesuit High School Athletic Hall of Fame.

Rupp was a 16th-round draft choice of the San Diego Padres in 1989 and played two seasons in the Padres' minor league organization. From 1993-95 he was a minor league coach for Oneonta of the New York Yankees organization in the New York-Penn League.

Rupp married his wife Jill in 1999 and they reside in College Park.

Leading the Way into the 21st CENTURY

- A Carnegie Research-I University
- Member, Assoc. of American Universities (AAU)
- Flagship of the University System of Maryland
- NCAA Division I Athletics

"Strive for clarity, but accept and understand ambiguity."

That phrase captures one way in which an educated person approaches the world and its challenges. Students who graduate from the University of Maryland have been exposed to the tools that allow them to put that perspective to work. Imparting such a perspective may be an ambitious project for undergraduate education, but to aim for anything less would be unworthy of a great university's goals for its students. Fourteen years ago, Promises to Keep, a plan for undergraduate education at Maryland, articulated those goals so eloquently we repeat them here.

Undergraduate education at Maryland "aims to provide students with a sense of identity and purpose, a concern for others, a sense of responsibility for the quality of life around them, a continuing eagerness for knowledge and understanding, and a foundation for a lifetime of personal enrichment."

As we learn with and from one another, we try to "develop human values," "celebrate tolerance and fairness," "contribute to the social conscience," "monitor and assess private and collective assumptions," and "recognize the glory, tragedy and humor of the human condition." Your years at the University of Maryland can provide you with all the tools you need to accomplish these goals. Students here are "educated to be able to read with perception and pleasure, write and speak with clarity and verve, handle numbers and computation proficiently, reason mathematically, generate clear questions and find probable arguments, reach substantiated conclusions, and accept ambiguity."

And we also hope you enjoy the journey.

University of MARYLAND

The Campus

The University of Maryland, College Park is the most comprehensive institution of higher education, research and service in the state. The university offers 100 undergraduate majors, 88 master's programs and 69 doctoral programs in 13 colleges and schools.

The university is one of only 30 public research universities that are members of the prestigious 58-member Assaciatian af American Universities. It is classified as a Research-I university by the Carnegie Foundation by virtue of the range of its baccalaureate programs, the amount of federal support received and the number of doctoral degrees awarded each year, sharing that honor with the top research universities in the country.

Among the public universities in the Assaciation af American Universities, Maryland ranks among the top in percentage of African-American undergraduate students. In addition, the university has the largest number of African-Americans and other minority members among its peers.

Flagship Status

In 1988, the University of Maryland, College Park was designated as the flagship institutian for the University System of Maryland. As well as pursuing a serious research mission and continuing its high level of service to the state, the university rededicated itself to providing the highest quality graduate and undergraduate education. Increased undergraduate opportunities far research and individual study; the development of the College Park Scholars Program and the expansion of the University Honors Program; the genesis of Honors Humanities and Gemstone; the creation of CORE, the general education program; and the establishment of the Center for Teaching Excellence all affirmed the legislature's designation of flagship.

Research

Opportunities for conducting research abound at the University of Maryland, College Park, and in the surrounding area, both for faculty to advance their own expertise and bring their insights into the classroom, and for students to begin their exploratian of their special interests with practical experience. On campus, special facilities and a number af organized research centers, bureaus, and institutes promate the acquisition and analysis of new knowledge in the arts, sciences and applied fields.

The university's enviable location – just nine miles from downtown Washington, D.C., and approximately 30 miles from both Baltimore and Annapolis – enhances the research of its faculty and students by providing access to some of the finest libraries and research centers in the country.

Libraries

Seven libraries make up the University of Maryland library system: McKeldin (main) Library, Architecture Library, Art Library, Engineering and Physical Sciences Library, Hornbake Library, Performing Arts Library, White Memorial (Chemistry) Library.

These libraries constitute the largest university research library institution in the Washington metropolitan area, providing vital resources to researchers, visiting scholars, and businesses throughout the region. The libraries' holdings include more than 2.5 million volumes, 24,000 subscriptions to periodicals and nearly 5 million items available in microfilm format.

Service

Programs of public service are central to the averall mission of the university. The philosophy is reflected in the wide array of programs and initiatives that benefit the state's business, agriculture and education communities.

With more than 90 high technology firms in the three-county area of Montgomery, Prince George's and Frederick counties, the university has faund abundant opportunity to extend its business and technology outreach programs to the regian. Many of these programs are part of the Engineering Research Center, which operates the Technalagy Advancement Program and the Maryland Industrial Partnerships, programs designed to provide Maryland entrepreneurs and small businesses with research facilities, technical assistance, administrative support, and access to technology that will advance their economic base.

The Institute for Systems Research has formed partnerships with major corporations, including Lockheed Martin, Westinghouse, BF Goodrich, Hughes Aircraft and Dupont to apply advanced systems research to solving industry problems in the fields of communications, manufacturing, controls and robotics.

The University of Maryland features a diversity of cultural and recreational activities. Four art galleries, more than 200 annual musical performances and countless dance and theater productions, expose audiences to the broadest range of programs in the arts. Additionally intercollegiate, club and intramural sports provide students of all levels an opportunity to participate as spectators or athletes.

A Wired World

Students at the University of Maryland are part of an academic community that enjoys free access to netwarked computer resources and facilities that are among the best in the country. Free computer accounts enable users to store class work on a networked server, download classroom support materials and other electronic information from campus networked resources such as inforM, or send electronic mail to faculty, fellow students or friends at other universities.

University President C.D. Mote Jr.

When C.D. "Dan" Mote Jr. became the 19th president of the University of Maryland on Sept. 1, 1998 he proclaimed it a university "on the move." Three years later, under his guidance, Maryland continues to move - at an ever accelerating rate - on the field, in the classroom, in the community, and in the world.

The University of Maryland is the state of Maryland's most important asset, says Mote: "The future of the state depends on this university."

Fulfilling that responsibility is a big job, but it's a role that Mote is accustomed to, having spent his entire academic career at the University of California at Berkeley, where he earned all his degrees, taught engineering and eventually became vice chancellor for University Relations before coming to Maryland

One of Mote's first tasks here was to serve on a governor's task force to examine the funding and organization of the University System of Maryland The result was a 1999 law reaffirming the university's flagship status and a commitment to become one of the best public universities in the nation.

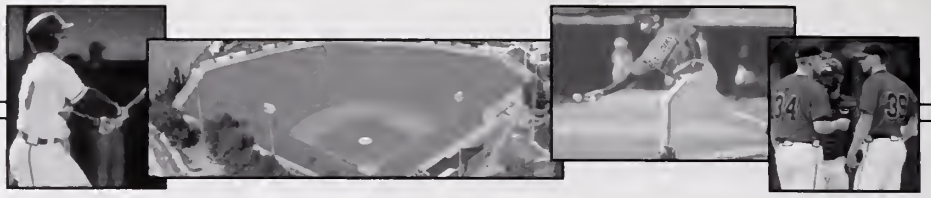
As president, Mote is committed to achieving that goal by creating a culture of excellence and civility across the campus, continuing to emphasize the highest quality education for students, strengthening the university's internal and external connections, and achieving distinction as an institution where discovery takes place every day and everywhere

The university's progress in each of these areas can be measured by the quality of its programs; the stature of its faculty; the talent of its students; partnerships with business; impact on the state's economy; its ability to apply discoveries to global, national and regional problems; and its world-class, state-of-the-art facilities.

Examples:

- Maryland has 60 programs ranked in the top 25 nationally by U.S. News and World Report
- The faculty includes a Nobelist, six Pulitzer Prize winners and nearly two dozen members of the national academies in their fields.
- The average GPA of entering students improved from 3.00 to 3.72 from 1990 to 2000, while the average SAT score rose from 1173 to 1244.
- In the past year, the university helped to attract Fujitsu Laboratories of America to open a research facility in College Park and helped to establish the Joint Global Change Research Institute, a research partnership between the university and the Pacific Northwest National Laboratory.
- In FY 2001, the university received more than $300 million in research grants and outreach funding.
- The university is adding spectacular new facilities such as the Clarice Smith Performing Arts Center; the Comcast Center, scheduled to open in 2002; and new classrooms for chemistry, computer science, business and engineering, extensive renovations to the Adele Stamp Student Union; and new parking structures

Under Dan Mote's leadership, Maryland today is truly the state's greatest asset.



Maryland ATHLETICS

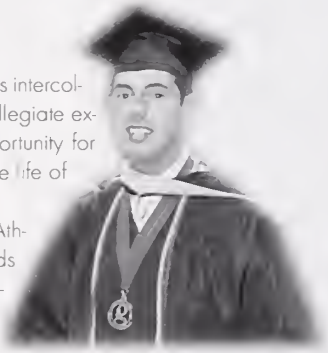
Among The Nation's Best

This is Maryland Athletics

At the University of Maryland, winning is not taken lightly. Like the rich history of all its sports programs, championships are a tradition.

Since the 1950s, Maryland has established itself as one of the most successful athletic programs in the nation. This type of success is no accident; it has been built year-by-year on the achievements of outstanding young men and women who were given the opportunity to excel both on and off the field of play. The victories, the championships and the national acclaim are all ingredients of the Maryland athletics program. Student-athletes who attend Maryland are part of a program and a university which thrives on tradition and excellence.

Academic Excellence



The University of Maryland considers intercollegiate athletics an integral part of the collegiate experience. Its existence provides an opportunity for students, faculty and alumni to share in the life of intercollegiate athletics.

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics strives to achieve the same standards of excellence in its athletic program as exist within the university's teaching, research and public service programs. The department embraces the concept that the student-athlete is first and foremost a student, possessing academic abilities, personal interests and ambitions comparable to those of the other members of the student body. Since 1983, 88 percent of freshmen scholarship athletes who completed their eligibility at the University of Maryland earned their degrees.

Goals

The great thing about being a Terrapin is the commitment to hard work and dedication. At the University of Maryland, the athletics department is dedicated to supporting a well-balanced Division I program. Athletics director Deborah A. Yow and her dedicated coaches, administrators and staff have re-engineered the department into a responsive and financially sound model – with a clear vision and a determined drive toward national prominence.

Athletic Success

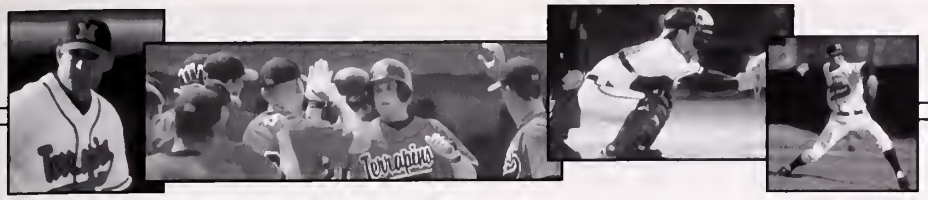
National championships, conference championships, national rankings and postseason play are all a part of the University of Maryland experience. The University of Maryland has established itself as one of the nation's elite athletics programs. The Terrapins have won 16 national championships, including a record seven consecutive by the women's lacrosse team (pictured). The Terrapins had plenty of reasons to celebrate when it came to intercollegiate athletics in 2000-01, with another finish among the top 15 percent of all schools in the Sears Directors' Cup, which measures the overall athletic achievement in men's and women's sports.

Competition

Wearing the Maryland uniform means playing in front of some of the loudest and most supportive fans in the nation. It means playing against the best teams in the country, in the most prestigious conference in the country, the ACC. It means wearing the school colors with pride. It means doing your best in athletics and academics. It is a unique and special feeling being a Terrapin.

Athletes in the Community

From the media spotlight to the community spotlight, Terrapin student-athletes strengthen the ties of the local community by serving as role models. Community service is a key part of the Terrapins' agenda. Student-athletes support many community programs which help to enrich the lives of Maryland youth while teaching the importance of studying hard and saying "no" to drugs and alcohol. Representatives from the University of Maryland athletics department speak to participants and use their image and the appeal of sports to encourage Maryland children to stay in school, improve their reading and writing skills, and to receive their high school diplomas.



Director of Athletics Deborah A. Yow

Dr. Deborah A. Yow is in the eighth year of her outstanding tenure as director of athletics at the University of Maryland ... a year in which she also successfully concluded her presidency of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics, an organization with a membership of more than 6,100 athletic administrators representing 1,600 colleges and universities in North America and Mexico.

The comprehensive success of Terrapin athletics under Debbie Yow's leadership is a clear and compelling testimony to her values of excellence, teamwork and accountability. Likewise, her election to the presidency of NACDA is an indication of the respect with which Dr. Yow is regarded in intercollegiate athletics and education in the U.S. and Canada.

Last year, Yow was named Female Sports Executive of the Year by the editors of Street & Smith's Sports Business Journal. In addition, she received the Carl Maddox Sport Management Award by the United States Sports Academy for excellence in athletics administration.

As a former member of the NCAA Management Council and NCAA Division I Budget Committee, Yow presented a strong voice for excellence and integrity at the highest levels of intercollegiate athletics. In these national roles she has represented the University of Maryland and the Atlantic Coast Conference with a balanced and proactive voice.

Maryland athletics directar Debarah A. Yaw was recently awarded the Carl Maddax Spart Management Award by the United States Sparts Academy.

Since taking over at Maryland in 1994, she and her staff have:

- Transformed Terrapin athletics into a responsive, goal-oriented organization.
- Balanced all seven of the department's annual budgets (the first balanced budgets for the Terrapins in 10 years prior to her arrival). The budget has now reached $33 million annually and the sizable prior debts have been eradicated.
- Greatly enhanced the academic support services provided to student-athletes, with an enviable exhausted eligibility graduation rate of nearly 90 percent during her tenure.
- Led the Terrapins to a national all-sports ranking in the upper 15 percent of all NCAA Division I institutions.
- Significantly expanded marketing and fund-raising efforts on behalf of Terrapin athletics. As a result, private gifts to athletics have increased 140 percent and corporate sponsorship revenues have increased by 275 percent during her tenure at Maryland.
- Continued to dramatically improve venues and facilities for the department's 25 teams.
- Implemented a strategic management model.
- Developed a comprehensive Internet strategy with management, marketing and fund-raising applications.
- Significantly improved customer care in every area.

The Maryland Department of Athletics has made remarkable progress under Yow's leadership. Regarding the many achievements of Terrapin athletics over the past seven years, Dr. Yow says, "We are pleased, but we are not satisfied ... our vision is to be one of the top 10 programs in the nation consistently ... we see no reason to settle for less."

Yow is known for her goal-oriented and proactive management style. She consistently inspires and challenges thase araund her to "raise our sights and sharpen aur tools ... to work hard and work smart ... to recognize that our only limitations are those that we place upon aurselves."

As a manager and leader, she clearly models these principles. She was recently singled out by Street & Smith's Sports Business Journal as one of the leading athletic administrators in the U.S.

A former basketball coach, she began her coaching career at the high school level in North Carolina before taking over as head women's coach at the University of Kentucky in 1976. She also achieved an outstanding coaching record as head coach at the University of Florida. She later moved into athletic administration at the University of Florida and the University of North Carolina-Greensboro, followed by a highly successful tenure as A.D. at Saint Louis University.

She has authored numerous articles and books on athletics, management and human behavior, and is a respected leader in intercollegiate athletics in the United States.

Summing up the entire Terrapin athletic program, Yow recently observed, "We have the finest student-athletes, coaches, support staff and administrative team in America. It is because of their courage, hard work and cooperative spirit that we now have a strong, viable athletic program. I am immensely proud of each of them. I am equally proud of our Terrapin fans who buy tickets and our Terrapin Club members who faithfully support the Maryland athletic program with their donations for scholarships, and the Maryland Educational Foundation and M Club members who serve and give liberally. We have a great Terrapin family. That's the foundation for all of our successes ... and the basis for our bright future."

Academic Support and Career Development

The University of Maryland is committed to providing the highest quality education to all of its students. The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics strives to provide student-athletes excellent opportunities to participate in an intercollegiate athletics program of the highest quality, with the result that their athletics participation becomes an integral and valued component of their total educational experience at the university.

Terrapin student-athletes will find that the same hard work and discipline that has earned them success in athletics competition is also required in the classroom. Balancing the significant time demands and responsibilities required to be a successful student-athlete at the highest collegiate level is no small task. Therefore, as a result of their commitment to representing the university through athletics, Terrapin student-athletes are able to utilize support programs designed to meet their specific needs.

The mission of the Academic Support and Career Development Unit (ASCDU) is to provide quality developmental programs and need-based services that will enhance academic progress, facilitate career development, and encourage the psychosocial growth of all UM student-athletes.

The Gossett Academic Support and Career Development Center for Terrapin student-athletes, named for long-time Terp supporters Barry and Mary Gossett, is located in Cole Field House. It features a study center that includes 24 desktop computers, private study cubicles, a tutoring center, classrooms, and individual offices for four professional academic counselors, a learning specialist, an assistant program coordinator, and two graduate assistants. In addition, the center's extended site is located in the Gossett Football Team House, and includes office space for three professional counselors and a 16-station desktop computer center.

Mission

The mission of the unit is (1) to provide quality developmental programs and need based services that will enhance the opportunity to earn an undergraduate degree, (2) offer career development opportunities and (3) support the psychosocial growth of student athletes through special initiatives.

Staff

Nine full-time professionals, two graduate assistants, tutorial support staff and student associates comprise the unit's workforce. Don Pearman is the ASCDU counselor for the baseball team.

Don Pearman

ASCDU & The University

Primary academic advising is provided by professional advisors assigned to each student athlete by his or her home college, school or department. The ASCDU counselors serve as an important support network that coordinates and implements transitional and developmental programs to address the academic and career development needs of student athletes. In cooperation with the Office of Records and Registration, ASCDU monitors academic progress of student athletes to assure that NCAA, ACC, and University rules and regulations are met.

Location

The primary ASCDU unit is conveniently located on the ground floor of Cole Field House where student athletes have access to various resources and services. Each academic counselor has private office space in order to insure meeting privacy. A study table room is staffed by proctors and arranged to maximize student focus and concentration. The facility also houses a tutorial room devoted to servicing the learning needs of student athletes. The staff maintains two computer resource laboratories with a total of 40 personal computers containing up-to-date software packages. In addition, ASCDU coordinates a laptop computer service that provides each team access to laptop computers while traveling to away competitions.

There is also a satellite computer room in the Gossett Football Team House. Three of the nine ASCDU professionals are currently housed in the building.

The Future

In the summer of 2002, the $124 million Comcast Center will become the new home of the ASCDU unit. A 7,000 square foot wing has been developed to replace the current space in Cole Field House. The new home of ASCDU will be conveniently located on the floor where offices of coaches for 20 sports will also be placed. The close proximity was designed to facilitate communication among ASCDU staff, coaches and student athletes. In addition, a building addition of an auditorium which will seat 140 is currently planned for the Gossett Football Team House. That space will be available for use by the entire athletic program, including ASCDU.

Strength & Conditioning

Collegiate baseball has evolved to the point where total physical preparation is necessary to successfully compete on the Division I level. It has become extremely important to strength and conditioning coach Corliss White that all of the Terrapin athletes are prepared through training to maximize their athletic development in terms of strength and conditioning. The high level of dedication by the members of the baseball team has brought about spectacular achievements in the weight room and in competition.

Corliss White

The objective of the strength and conditioning program for baseball is based on the enhancement of performance as well as the prevention of injuries. White makes every attempt to accommodate the different training needs of each individual athlete.

The preparation of a student-athlete to compete in baseball goes beyond strength and power training in the weight room. Speed improvement, flexibility, plyometrics, nutrition, agility and conditioning are also important ingredients in the preparation of the baseball team here at Maryland. The strength and conditioning staff puts a great emphasis on improving the quickness of the Terps through increased mechanical efficiency and the improvement of acceleration of maximum velocity.

Media Guidelines

Credentials: Media and photographer credentials for events at Maryland's Shipley Field may be obtained by working press, radio and television by writing or calling Jason Baum in the Maryland Athletic Media Relations Office, 1112 Cole Field House, College Park, MD 20741-0295. All requests should be submitted at least 48 hours prior to the event by phoning the Media Relations Office at (301) 314-7068. Since space is limited, accommodations are on a priority basis: daily newspapers and wire services, originating radio and television stations, national weekly or monthly publications, electronic media outlets, local and regional television crews. Priority is granted to members of the media who cover Maryland athletics on a regular basis, and to visiting media members. Photo passes will be issued only to accredited photographers on assignment.

Services: The Media Relations Office will provide complete statistics at the conclusion of every home game. Programs containing rosters and event notes on each team will be provided for the working media.

Fax Machine: The Media Relations Office has one facsimile machine, located in Room 1112 of Cole Field House, which is available upon request. The fax number is (301) 314-9094

Mediateamlink.com: Releases, statistics and other sports information from all ACC schools as well as other conferences and institutions around the country are ovailable by accessing www.mediateamlink.com.
